August 29, 2019-

Tallahassee, Fla. – Governor Ron DeSantis sent a letter to President Donald Trump formally requesting that he declare a pre-landfall disaster as Florida prepares for Hurricane Dorian. Current forecasts project Hurricane Dorian will hit the East Coast of Florida as a major hurricane, possibly as strong as a Category 4. The Pre-Landfall Declaration request is for all 67 counties in Florida.

“With Hurricane Dorian strengthening, I have sent a letter to President Donald Trump requesting that he declare a pre-landfall disaster for all of Florida’s 67 counties,” said Governor DeSantis. “The trajectory of this storm remains uncertain, and this declaration will provide us with the necessary resources to ensure the state is fully prepared. I am confident the President will grant my request and show his full support for Florida.”

This declaration will provide important resources and assistance from the federal government, as well as free up funding sources for emergency protective measures. To view the Governor’s letter to President Trump, click HERE.

Florida’s entire Congressional delegation wrote a letter to President Trump in support of Governor DeSantis’ request for a pre-landfall emergency declaration in the expectation of Hurricane Dorian. To view the Florida delegation’s letter to President Trump, click HERE.

Today, Governor DeSantis issued Executive Order 19-190, expanding the state of emergency to include all 67 counties in Florida. Governor DeSantis also visited the National Hurricane Center in Miami, as well as the Emergency Operations Centers in Brevard and Duval counties.

Additionally, at Governor DeSantis’ direction, approximately 2,500 members of the Florida National Guard have been activated, with an additional 1,500 on standby awaiting orders.

August 29, 2019-

Tallahassee, Fla. – Today, Governor Ron DeSantis visited the National Hurricane Center in Miami where he received a full briefing on Hurricane Dorian. The Governor is in constant communication with federal, state and local emergency management officials and state agency leaders to ensure the state is fully prepared.

“Due to Hurricane Dorian’s uncertain projected path, I am expanding the state of emergency to include all 67 counties throughout Florida,” said Governor DeSantis. “All residents, especially those along the east coast, need to be prepared for possible impacts. As it increases strength, this storm has the potential to severely damage homes, businesses and buildings, which is why all Floridians should remain vigilant. Do not wait until it is too late to make a plan.”

Yesterday, Governor DeSantis issued Executive Order 19-189, declaring a state of emergency in 26 counties.

Today, Governor DeSantis issued Executive Order 19-190, expanding the state of emergency to include all 67 counties in Florida. This provides state and local governments ample time, resources and flexibility to prepare as the exact landfall location of Hurricane Dorian continues to fluctuate.

Governor DeSantis also visited the Brevard County Emergency Operations Center and will visit the Duval County Emergency Operations Center this afternoon. This morning, the State Emergency Operations Center activated to a Level 2, enhancing coordination between federal, state and local emergency management agencies.

Tropical Storm Dorian has tracked further north in the eastern Caribbean than forecast which will result in Dorian missing the major mountains of Hispaniola and perhaps even Puerto Rico. As of 8 AM ET, Dorian was located 60 miles southeast of St. Croix and moving to the northwest at 13 mph. Hurricane Hunter planes have found Dorian to be strengthening. Maximum sustained winds are at 60 mph. Once Dorian moves into the southwest Atlantic on Thursday, conditions will become more favorable for strengthening. As Dorian approaches Florida on Sunday, it is forecast to be at least a Category 2 hurricane. The exact track is uncertain but Dorian looks to pose a significant threat to Florida for the Labor Day Weekend. ## September 4, 2019:

Georgia DOT Special Response Teams Ready to Assist Southeast, Coastal Georgia as Dorian Inches Closer

ATLANTA, GA – Hurricane Dorian has been downgraded to a category two hurricane but is still forecast to bring dangerous tropical storm force winds, and is expected to reach the Georgia coast between 6 pm Wednesday and midnight Thursday. Georgia DOT has prepared for Hurricane Dorian on a statewide level in partnership with the Governor's Office, Georgia Emergency Management and Homeland Security Agency, the National Weather Service and state and local officials.

Governor Brian Kemp has extended the state of emergency declaration to 21 counties located in the south and coastal areas of Georgia; those counties are Appling, Bacon, Brantley, Bryan, Bulloch, Camden, Charlton, Chatham, Clinch, Echols, Effingham, Evans, Glynn, Liberty, Long, McIntosh, Pierce, Screven, Tattnall, Wayne and Ware.

The storm is currently moving at approximately eight miles an hour with tropical storm force winds expected in coastal communities with three to four foot storm surges and causeway flooding. Winds are expected to drop as the storm moves inland.

For the public's safety and in anticipation of gale-force winds GDOT has closed the Talmadge Memorial Bridge on US17 in Savannah-Chatham Count, the Sidney Lanier Bridge on US 17/SR 25 and the St. Simon's Island causeway in Glynn County. In addition, all flights and train travel to the potentially affected areas has been halted, and the ports of Savannah and Brunswick have been closed. As the storm continues to move north, teams will monitor the need for additional closures in coastal Georgia.

Contraflow for vehicle traffic on I-16 was removed today, and I-16 has returned to normal east/west operation. However, removing the contraflow is not an invitation to return to potentially impacted areas. The public should continue to heed the governor's emergency declaration for affected counties and is encouraged to evacuate immediately as storm conditions are expected to continue to deteriorate and evacuation may become difficult or dangerous.

Georgia DOT has 860 personnel on standby, ready to respond with 1033 pieces of equipment. Roughly a third of those personnel are on standby in coastal Georgia. Eleven bridge inspection teams are ready in areas expected to be most impacted. CHAMP crews are working ordinary shifts today to provide motorist assistance and traffic control.

Georgia DOT Special Response Teams will begin clearing impacted roadways once conditions are determined to be safe to do so. In the event of major flooding, crews will wait until waters recede to begin clean up. Priority routes will be cleared first to ensure the public maintains access to hospitals, trauma centers and other public facilities.

As Hurricane Dorian moves past Georgia, motorists are encouraged to use caution to ensure their safety and be cautious of strong winds, flooding, downed power lines and the potential for falling trees.

- Call 511 to report flash flooding, downed trees or other obstructions on roadways or bridges impeding travel
- Take shelter as the system passes through the state
- Do not to drive around barricades that are in place for motorist's safety or through standing water
- Residents should never clear tree limbs, downed trees or debris from roadways, as live power lines could be tangled in debris and cause injury or death; instead, wait for Georgia DOT and Georgia Power crews
- Motorists who must drive should always treat flashing red and non-operational signals as a four-way stop

For real-time road conditions, call 511 or visit Georgia511. For weather information, visit the National Weather Service in Tallahassee, Florida, or the National Weather Service in Peachtree City, Georgia.
